

Jose Alberto Aguilar

Joche Aguilar's success story:

He came to our orphanage when he was 6 years old. He was extremely shy and would avoid eye contact. He never took initiative to approach anyone, ever. He always went to the back of a group often hiding his face. As a boy, he claimed he was a thief and would always be one. After years of care and attention, Joche is now a transformed young man.

In 2003, he graduated high school and is now fully employed as an engineer and supervisor in an electric power plant, earning three times the average wage earner's salary in Honduras. He is extremely proud of his accomplishments and enormously grateful for his new and productive life.

He has been married for 5 years to his lovely wife Vanessa who is the general manager in a shipping agency and they are proud and caring parents to Andy and Ana Karina .

Proof that anybody can be what he aspires to be, given a chance and opportunity.

Joche is also extremely grateful to the foundation that supported him and returning the favors by helping whenever help is needed.
